

Let me tell you- this little ATV took more time than the rest of the Ford van.....still have decals, antennas, weathering, little bits-n-pieces----but getting almost done.....this one gets the Arizona decal theme.....and NO drops of glue on the glass.....ha ha ha.....

The ATV is actually a co-venture with Hot Wheels and John Deere. It has a newer hydro-dynamic-pump drive and steering actuation system. You can see that on some real vehicles today on the roads. This co-venture is actually a trial ATV given to the regional Geological Survey office in Phoenix Arizona for extensive testing on their daily work activities in the desert.
