

I started this message to ask about the “AMT 2 in 1 Corvette” kit which was shown at your meeting. After some false starts, another search found a good image of the box with the info I needed legible: learning that it’s a coupe AND a convertible, both “curbside”. And from the appearances with other pictures and review comments, typical AMT.

Fortunately, neither of my Corvette models (which mimic the two 1:1 scale cars in our garage) is an AMT kit!

In the process of looking for that AMT kit, I copied out your picture of (Kevin Westphal bringing the Hobbytown kits. I presume it was Kevin, and he wasn't really "bringing" them, since you meet in the store!)

Is Kevin the store manager?

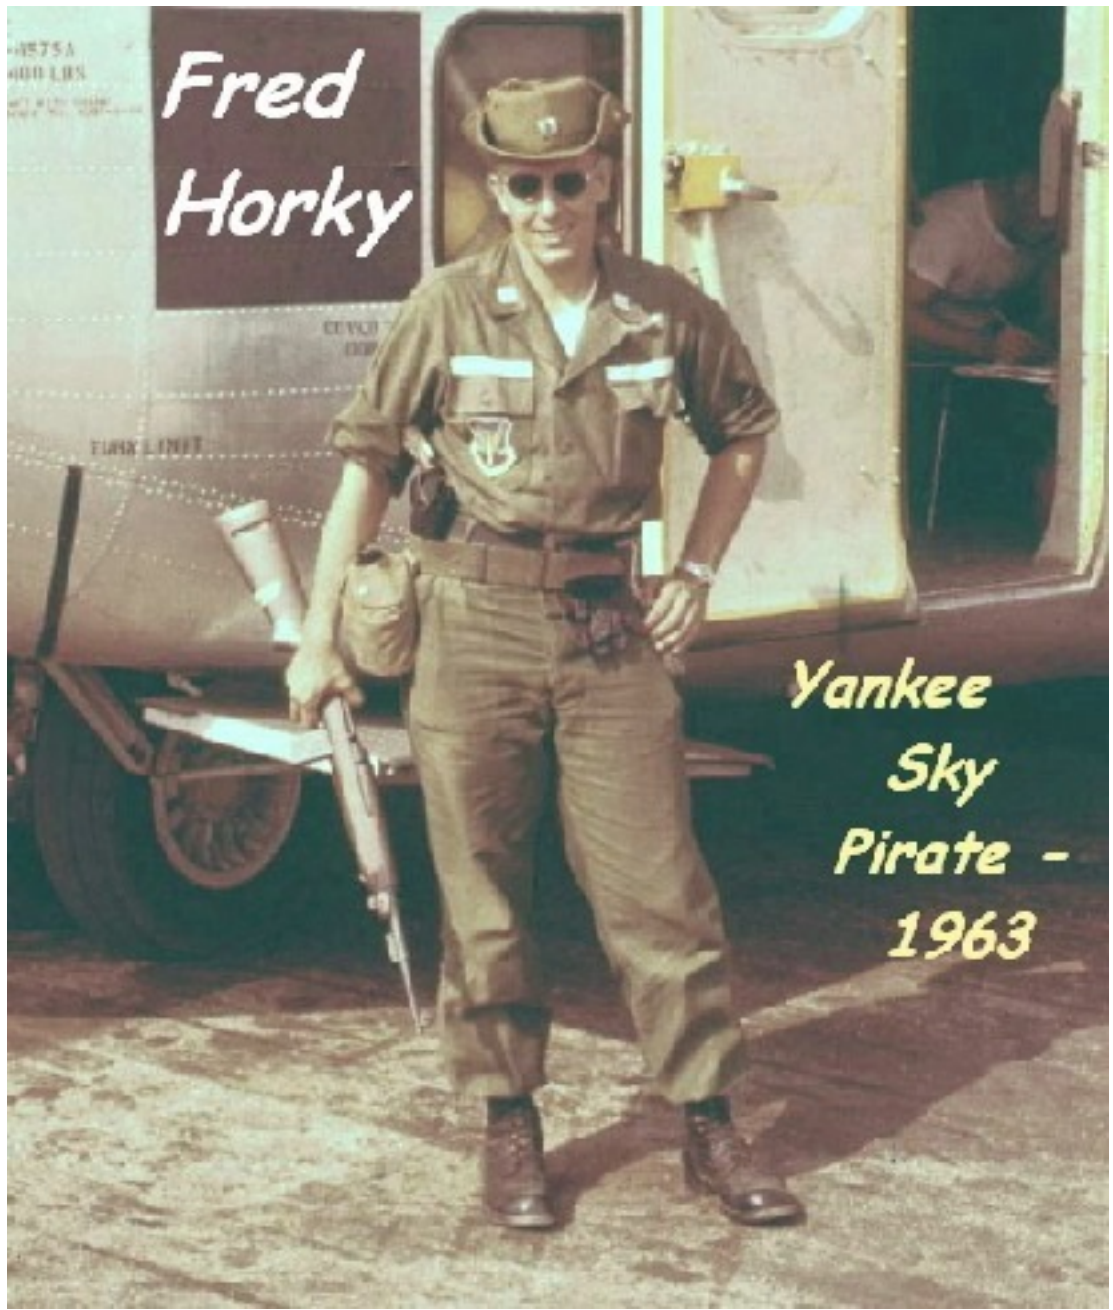

One more question I just had to ask: is that just an extremely dirty upper lip, or a runaway, out of control attempt at a mustache? If he's going for the Rhett Butler look (Clark Gable in "Gone with the Wind"

*...somebody needs to tell him that he's going about it the wrong way.

I know, I tried years ago, on my first Vietnam tour. I kept it for several years, but never did get it right, and finally gave up....

I expect Kevin will also, eventually.....

*Yankee
Sky
Pirate - 1963*